

Pennsylvania Community Theatre Gets a New Website

Butler Little Theatre has entertained the Butler, Pennsylvania, community since February 1941. Located 35 miles north of Pittsburgh, this continuously operated, non-profit, all-volunteer organization offers area actors, directors, production staff, and audiences five shows each season and annual workshops for children and youth. Located just off Main Street in downtown Butler, the converted carriage house theater seats 155 people and accommodates members, guests and the general public.

In order to celebrate the theatre's 75th season, the group asked Palmerworks to design a vibrant new website. We created a site with a flowing marquee of upcoming shows, the complete history of the theatre, and lots and lots of photo galleries that highlight their many community events and productions...and of course, the website is responsive, so it's easily accessed on phones and tablets.

Take a look at bltgroup.org.

No matter what kind of organization you have, we can create a professional-looking website for you at a very reasonable price. Call us at 734-252-WEB1, or visit our website for more information: www.palmerworks.com.